States that Matter

Bubbling potions in the Mad Science lab are cool looking, but what makes them cool? Dry Ice is the main culprit. It's frozen gas – so cold it thinks your freezer is hot. See it change from ice to gas up close.

Harnessing Heat

Take-on temperature! Build a thermometer and heat things up with friction. Feel how hot and cold can change at a touch. How about seeing an underwater volcano? Explore the science of Cotton Candy – and then eat it of course.

Watts Up

Using a Van de Graff generator can be a hair raising experience. But it's fun. Mini indoor lightning is too. Is it static or current? Find out that and more about electricity.

Sonic Sound

It's giving off good vibrations – because that's what makes sound. Have a great time checking out waves and hearing your voice sound like a chipmunk or robot with our voice modulator.

Optical Illusions

Are your eyes playing tricks on you? It happens a lot. But can it make a pig look like it's floating in midair? Come and see lines curve that actually don't and maybe look around a corner.

Tantalizing Taste

Use your sense of taste. Magnify your taste buds and unplug your nose. Carbonate your own soda and take the Pepsi/Coke taste test challenge. Sort out the scents with Scratch 'n Match.
